Introduction to NewStar Chinese School

Davis NewStar Chinese School (NSCS) was established in 2001 as a non-profit and educational organization. NSCS is dedicated to teach students Chinese language and culture, promote Chinese culture in America, stimulate interaction between Chinese and American culture, and promote the understanding and appreciation of Chinese language, customs and culture through teaching, after school, and outreach activities. For the current 2007-2008 school year, the enrollment is 156 students from 127 families of Chinese and other ethnic heritages, who live in Davis, Woodland, Vacaville, Fairfield, and Sacramento. Normally, classes are held on Fridays from 7 pm to 9 pm at the Emerson Jr. High School campus in Davis. Both Chinese speaking and non-Chinese speaking students are welcome to attend.

NSCS offers regular classes from the kindergarten through the ninth grade. The kindergarten class focuses on the basic listening reading, game-playing, music and art. As students continue their studies into first through eighth grade, students will further their Chinese language development with grade-level appropriate curriculum “Standard Chinese - Bilingual edition” (published by the People’s Education Press in China). In each level, students continue to develop an expanding vocabulary, communicate and write in sentences with correct pronunciations, use of grammar, and structure. Students who successfully complete the entire program will be able to understand, communicate, read, and write Chinese. Instruction for the classes will offer both native and non-native speakers an opportunity to learn Chinese. The completion of the program will benefit students who plan to take the SAT II in Chinese. The ninth grade students will finish the last volume of the “Standard Chinese” text book. In the same time, students will have a chance to learn brilliant 5,000 years Chinese history and tradition. The content will cover from Huang Di to the current time various topics of Chinese culture. In addition to history itself, the covered topics will include language and characters, myths and religions, thoughts and philosophies, medicine and martial arts (kung fu), literature, music, art and architecture, etc. For each topic, the relevant facts, legends, events, characters, places and written works will be introduced. The conversational Chinese class is instructed in English. It offers both adults and children a chance to learn to speak Chinese in a more relaxed atmosphere, learning Chinese culture and heritage at the same time. In addition to regular classroom instruction, NewStar Chinese School also offers variety of extra-curricular classes such as: martial arts, cultural dancing, singing, craft, and board game classes. We also have waist drum team and music orchestra, which are free to join. These classes and teams help promote better understanding of Chinese cultural heritage, mutual respect, tolerance of diverse cultures in the society, and build confidence and self esteem in students and parents.

NewStar Chinese School is also committed to serving local communities and adding cultural diversity to the wonderful greater Davis region, and proudly participates in many community events. Please visit our website at <http://newstar.davis.ca.us> for more information about NSCS.
